“DID CHRIST DO ALL THE WORK ON THE CROSS?: PART 2”

BY: JASON PATRICK HILBURN

Christ is still working today. He is interceding as the Christian’s High Priest: “Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them” (Heb. 7:25; 1 John 1:7 9; 2:1). It is therefore erroneous to interpret Jesus’ statement in John 19:30 to mean Christ’s work on the cross was the last work that ever needed to be done related to man’s salvation.

Christ said that BELIEF is a work (John 6:27 29). “Work” is not a bad word as so many seem to assume. A work is something men choose to do. Some works are not involved in man’s salvation (such as works of the Law of Moses, Eph. 2); and, some works are required, such as obeying God’s New Testament commands for salvation (Acts 10:34-35, 48; cf. 2:38 41; 22:16).

After the cross, Christ gave His followers the greatest work the world has ever known. After His death and resurrection, Jesus commanded His followers to preach the Gospel to everyone and baptize those who want to be saved —“And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned” (Mark 16:15 16, man says “he that believeth and is NOT baptized shall be saved”). The work of preaching the Gospel and baptizing those who believe will last until the end of the world (Matt. 28:20). To say there is no work to do today is to do away with the greatest mission ever given to man.
